

Contributors

GERGELY AMBRUS is associate professor in the Institute of Philosophy at Eötvös Loránd University, Budapest. His main areas of specialisations: 20th century philosophy of mind and the history of analytic philosophy with an emphasis on their intersection.

E-mail: ambrusg@btk.elte.hu

CHRISTIAN DAMBÖCK (PhD) is privatdozent at the Philosophical Institute of the University of Vienna and director of the research project Carnap in Context II: (Dis)continuities at the Institute Vienna Circle. His research interests include: philosophy of science and the humanities in the 19th and 20th century in central Europe and the US; descriptive psychology; moral non-cognitivism and theories of democracy; philosophy of logic.

E-mail: christian.damboeck@univie.ac.at

DENIS FISETTE is professor in the department of philosophy at the University of Quebec at Montreal. His main area of specialization are contemporary philosophy of mind and history of German language philosophy in the 19th and 20th century. His actual research interest pertains to emotions and affects.

Email: fisetten.denis@uqam.ca

GUILLAUME FRECHETTE (PhD) is a research fellow in the department of philosophy of Salzburg University. His main areas of specialisations include: history of philosophy (Austrian philosophy, early phenomenology, German philosophy of the 19th century); ontology and metaphysics (analytic ontology and its history); philosophy of mind (consciousness, intentionality).

E-mail: Guillaume.Frechette@sbgu.ac.at

CHRISTOPH LIMBECK-LILIENAU (PhD) is research fellow at the University of Vienna, Institute Vienna Circle whose work concentrates mainly on logical empiricism and the Vienna Circle, on the philosophy of perception and on theories of intentionality. Areas of specialisation: history of analytic philosophy, logical empiricism, philosophy of mind.

E-mail: christoph.limbeck@univie.ac.at

CSABA PLÉH is distinguished visiting professor of the Central European University, Department of Cognitive Science, fellow of the Collegium de Lyon, Université de Lyon, full member of the Hungarian Academy of Sciences. His research interests: cognitive psychology, history of cognition, theories of psychology.

E-mail: vispleh@ceu.edu

MIKLÓS RÉDEI is professor of philosophy at the London School of Economics and Political Science. His field of research is philosophy and foundations of modern physics, foundations of probability theory and general philosophy of science. He also has published on von Neumann's life and work; he edited a volume containing von Neumann's selected letters.

Personal webpage: <http://personal.lse.ac.uk/redeim/>

FRIEDRICH STADLER is professor for history and philosophy of science at the University of Vienna and founder and long-time director of the Institute Vienna Circle. His main research areas: history and philosophy of science, Austrian philosophy and intellectual history.

E-mail: Friedrich.Stadler@univie.ac.at

BARNABÁS SZEKÉR (MA) teaches history and German language at the Piarist Secondary School in Budapest and works as an archivist in the Central Archive of the Hungarian Province of the Piarist Order. He writes his PhD-thesis at the Eötvös Loránd University in Budapest on early modern history of education.

BETTINA SZABADOS (MA) is PhD student in philosophy at the Eötvös Loránd University and junior research fellow at the Institute of Philosophy of the Research Centre for the Humanities of the Hungarian Academy of Sciences in Budapest. Her PhD thesis is dedicated to Georg Lukács' early aesthetical and philosophical works; and her further research focuses on late nineteenth and early twentieth century German philosophy and its Hungarian reception.

THOMAS UEBEL is Professor of Philosophy at the University of Manchester, U.K. His specialisation is history of analytical philosophy and philosophy of science, with particular emphasis on logical empiricism.

E-mail: thomas.e.uebel@manchester.ac.uk

PÉTER ANDRÁS VARGA (PhD) is research fellow of the Institute of Philosophy of the Research Centre for the Humanities of the Hungarian Academy of Sciences, where he is also scientific director of the institute's Hungarian Philosophical Archives. He is the author of two Hungarian books and articles published in, e.g., Husserl Studies, Brentano Studien, and The Oxford Handbook of the History of Phenomenology.

E-mail: varga.peter@btk.mta.hu