

Contributors

GERGELY AMBRUS is Associate Professor of Philosophy at Eötvös Loránd University, Budapest. His main areas of specialisation are: 20th century philosophy of mind and the history of analytic philosophy with and emphasis on their intersection.

E-mail: ambrus.gergely@btk.elte.hu

GÁBOR BOROS is Professor of Philosophy at Károli Gáspár University of the Reformed Church in Hungary. His main areas of specialisations are early modern philosophy, philosophy of emotions – especially love –, and practical philosophy in general.

E-mail: h13556bor@mail.iif.hu

PHILIPPE CABESTAN (PhD) teaches philosophy at Lycée Janson de Sailly Paris and is President of the French Society of Daseinsanalyse. His research areas include phenomenology, Sartre, anthropology and psychoanalysis.

E-mail: philippecabestan@orange.fr

JAMES CARTLIDGE is a PhD Student at Central European University where he is working on his thesis about Heidegger's philosophical anthropology.

E-mail: jkcartlidge92@gmail.com

PHILIPP HÖFELE (PhD) is Postdoc Researcher at University of Freiburg. He was educated at University of Freiburg, Paris-Sorbonne University and at University of Strasbourg. His fields of interest include ethics, philosophy of nature and technology, aesthetics, philosophy of religion and German idealism.

E-mail: philipp.hoefele@philosophie.uni-freiburg.de

LORE HÜHN (PhD) is Professor of Philosophy specializing in Ethics and German Idealism at the University of Freiburg. She was educated at Marburg University and at Freie Universität Berlin. Her research interests include ethics, aesthetics, philosophy of nature, anthropology, German idealism and philosophy of the 19th and 20th century.

E-mail: lore.huehn@philosophie.uni-freiburg.de

HYE YOUNG KIM (PhD) is Associate Researcher at the Husserl Archive at l'Ecole Normale Supérieure in Paris. She was educated Korea University (South Korea) and Freie Universität Berlin. Her fields of interest are 19th and 20th century European philosophy, metaphysics, epistemology, foundational mathematics.

E-mail: hye.young.kim@ens.fr

CSABA OLAY (PhD) is Professor of Philosophy at Eötvös University Budapest. He was educated at Eötvös University and at University of Freiburg. His fields of interest include 19th and 20th century continental philosophy, hermeneutics, existentialism, aesthetics.

E-mail: olay.csaba@btk.elte.hu

CSABA PLÉH is distinguished visiting professor of the Central European University, Department of Cognitive Science, Fellow of the Collegium de Lyon, Université de Lyon, full member of the Hungarian Academy of Sciences. His interests: cognitive psychology, history of cognition, theories of psychology.

E-mail: vispleh@ceu.edu

TIM THORNTON (PhD, DLitt) is Professor of Philosophy and Mental Health at the University of Central Lancashire. He was educated at Cambridge University. His research interests are philosophy of psychiatry, judgement, tacit knowledge and the philosophy of Wittgenstein and of John McDowell.

E-mail: Tthornton1@uclan.ac.uk

JUDIT SZALAI is Associate Professor of Philosophy at Eötvös University, Budapest. Her main interests are philosophical psychology and psychopathology, the philosophy of mind, the philosophy of technology, and the history of seventeenth-century thought.

E-mail: szalai@caesar.elte.hu

DAVID WEBERMAN (PhD) is Associate Professor of Philosophy at the Central European University. He was educated at Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität Munich and Columbia University. His research interests include 19th and 20th century European philosophy; philosophy of history; hermeneutics; aesthetics.

E-mail: webermand@ceu.edu